HUNGKONG, OCTOBER 13TH, 1887.

THE appointment of Mr. STEWART-LOCKHART to the post of Registrar-General disposes of all speculation as to whom the mantle of Dr. STEWART was to descend upon. Mr. Lock-HART had undoubted claims to the preferment which has so luckily befallen him. He had twice acted as Registrar-General, once for about twelve months and the second time for over eighteen months. He must therefore be well acquainted with the routine and the duties of the post. Moreover he is known to be a good Chinese scholar and a capable official. Nevertheless we cannot regard Mr. LOCKHART as altogether a suitable incumbent of this post. The Registrar-General's Department is in many respects an exceptional and an objectionable one. It is essentially different from other departments as being designed to deal with matters connected with the Chinese popula- by H. E. His action with regard to Tung Wah Hospital, which drew upon him the censure of the Acting Chief Justice in the Supreme Court the other day, reassuring on that point. Of fact that the public are inclined to watch the Tyler. proceedings of his inquisitorial department. with great jealousy and suspicion will no doubt tend to render him exceedingly careful and cautious in the future. The knowledge that he succeeds such tried and trusted officials as Sir CRCIL SMITH, the Hon. J. Russull, and the present Colonial Secretary wil doubtless also put Mr. Lockhart on his mettle and render him desirous of maintaining the dignity of his office and of endeavouring to establish a reputation not unworthy of those of his eminent predecessors.

In this Colony of Acting officials it is naturally some satisfaction to see three important posts at length filled by the actual holders. We now have once more a Governor, a Colonial Secretary, and a Registrar-General. Could not the list of acting men be still further reduced? The post of Superintendent of Exports and Imports was originally intended to be tacked on to the the Espiegle, 10, composite sloop, 1,130 tons, certain novelties of construction to any of our duties of the Assistant Harbour Master-a post invented by the Downing Street autho- | hoisted the pennant on April 3, 1884. rities to give employment for ex-naval officers who have entered the Colonial service. But Captain THOMSETT will, we understand, very shortly retire on pension, and the post of Harbour Master will then be vacant. Commander RUMBRY will naturally expect to succeed his chief. Meantime Commander RUMSEY'S place as Superintendent of Exports and Imports is being most ably filled by Mr. SETH; the office of Assistant Harbour Master does not require an acting appointment for very obvious reasons. The first was—were they entitled to any bonus supposing the regulation never existed? And the second was had the company the power to alter the regulations as to the time necessary to Friday next at 2.30 p.m. the defendant being hold a policy before the holder was entitled to a allowed out on the same bail as previously. bonus, after the holder had entered into a contract for a specified time? So far as the first point was concerned there was no doubt in his mind. The plaintiff was clearly entitled to a bonus according to the prospectus. The letter which had been put in also showed that it was the intention of the Company that participating policy holders, who paid a higher rate than the ordinary policy holders, should share in the profits of the Company. The clause in the policy which stated that the bonus would be given conditionally upon regulations then in force, or to be made did not in any way take away their right to the bonus. He submitted that the regulations to be made could only refer to appropriation, as to how much or how little should be appropriated. and certainly not to the altering of the number of years necessary to hold a policy before the holder could participate in the bonus. What was to prevent the company altering the limit not to five years but to fifty? The plaintiff entered into a contract to pay a certain rate of premium on the understanding that at the and having entered into that contract he 'Mr. Wilson, in reply to Mr. Ho Kai, said that

MACAO.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.]

12th October. . The city and its business are, as usual, dull. The former was kept a little lively a few days ago by Chiarini's Circus and Menagerie, to witness which thousands of natives from various here, but since the departure of the great show things have returned to their statu quo ante.

The stupid rumours in connection with an aggressive visit of the Governor of Canton to this place have, as anticipated in my previous communications, subsided; it was simply a canard which was spread by mischievous persons, who, for want of better employment of their valueless time and imagination, and moved by disloyal feelings. endeavoured to alarm the population of the city. To a limited extent it took effect, as it is reported that some of the Chinese removed to your place in consequence of the absurd rumour, and those who have their property here applied to the autherities for information on the subject, which resulted in Dr. Marques d'Oliveira, the Procurador, issuing a notification denying that any foundation existed for any fear of such an occurrence. In fact Macao has never been in better relations with the Chinese Government.

The Siamese Princes arrived here on Monday afternoon by the river boat Honam. They landed with due Military honours, and were received at the wharf by H.E. Sr. Costa, who conducted them to Government House. Among those present at the landing were Sr. Comand others. Their Royal Highnesses were enterpresent. THE PUDDING TEST.

Dr. Milner Fothergill, who has been instruct ing and entertaining the members of the British Association on the subject of cockney "deterioration," finds the best and readlest support for his views in what may for shortness be convenient. ly called "the pudding test." The cookney is sharp, shrewd, and witty in his way, but he can not tackle the "pastry, pie crust, and cakes." which form so large a part of the diet of his country cousins. When the youthful here of "Looksley "Hall," along the dusky highway, near and nearer drawn, "saw in heaven the light of Löndon flaring like another dawn," little perhaps did he think th t he was leaving behind him-taking maybe a farewell for ever of the dumpling of his native home-supposed, to be somewhere down Lincolnshire way-and entering a community in which the rolling-pin and the pasteboard so often hang idly on the kitchen wall. What Lord Tennyson's young man from the country came to, after his pastry days were saying "No!"—too often with an unprovoked coived that these students had made en. of Their Imperial Majesties the Empress and procession before his guest. Litter which dances are the coived that these students had made en. acerbity of tone -when the waiter or the servant mildly suggests "tart or pudding, sir?" Of the name of the school to Po. Hsüch Kuan course this is only an indication of the truth that town life is unhealthy, and a corroboration of Mr. Cantlie's recent demonstration of the rarity of "a pure-bred cockney of the fourth generation." So does the country-bred settler in towns take to rich viands, tempered with bread and fish, and in lied of fruit tarts indulges immoderately in seductive meat-pies unmindful of the maxim of that cookney philosopher, made wise by his sufferings, who declared that "One man's meatpie is another man's mest-poison." Hence gout, pulmonary phthisis, and Bright's disease, which are classed by Dr. Fothergill with all the irritating complacency of the scientific inquirer among "Dame Nature's means of weeding out the degenerate town dweller." In a like spirit we are assured that the offspring of urban residents are another race from their cousins who remain in the country. The latter are largelimbed, stalwart, fair-haired Anglo-Danes, while their urban cousins are smaller, slighter, darker beings, of an earlier and lowlier ethnic form, and resembling the Celto-Iberian race. More horrible still, admidst this general reversion the eye of science recognises a distinct liverreversion to the early primitive internal secretions of the bird and reptile. Perhaps after all there may be in this some componention. It is a significant fact that Norfolk, perhaps the most dumpling-eating country in the whole kingdom, is reluctantly described by the school inspectors as pre-eminently the county of dull children. The exclamation "Them's the jockeys for me!" which first awakened Coloridge's mind to the fact that this happy, healthy-looking fellow guest at the inn table was not the intellectual person be had taken him for, may have had even a deeper significance than the poet philosopher imagined. Hitherto the dumplings have been supposed to be merely the innocent provocation of that significant evidence of a debased intellect. But what if the dump-

RINGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY: WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION.

An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the pay Chinese and English type correspond in the size &c., &c., Published at the Office of the Hongkong Daily of body, thereby effecting a vast economy space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications. To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration:— Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16.000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst may be required. this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese charac-The "Trade Report" has a large circulation | ters.
